Equal pay for women battle gains traction in New York

► New Yorkers cite it as a top concern for lawmakers to address ► Women make 85 percent of their male counterparts ► Many reasons given for pay inequality

The decades-long fight for women's equal pay in New York is finally gaining traction, spearheaded by Gov. Andrew Cuomo and his supporters.

Cuomo made women's pay equity one of the 10 goals in the Woman's Equality Act he recently announced — and a new Quinnipiac survey showed many New Yorkers stand with him. Fifty-three percent of those polled said equal pay should be the highest priority for the state Legislature, with 36 percent more saying it should be a high priority.

A report released by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics in December indicates that in 2011, New York State female full-time salary workers made median weekly earnings of $760 — or 85 percent — of the $894 median weekly earnings for male counterparts.

Beverly Neufeld, director of the Equal Pay Coalition NYC, believes now is the time for pay-equity reform.

"There is talk on all state levels about economic security, understanding that women are a driving force in the economy and businesses do better when they have routine loyal and committed workers," Neufeld said.

Elizabeth Mason, an employment lawyer in Manhattan, represents a client who was overlooked for a promotion. Although she had as many work responsibilities and was more educated than her male co-worker, she made less money.

"It was very clear from the supervisor's comments, and even the male individual, that she was not being treated equally and fairly because of her gender," Mason said.

Women's-rights experts give a range of reasons for why women aren't paid the same as men, including the fact that historically men have made more, whether they take time off to raise a family, and whether women are less likely to ask for a raise.

Linda Hartley, 58, vice president of New York Women's Agenda, who works full time as the president of Hartley Consulting, said her experiences with pay inequity informed her women's-rights work today. "This isn't something we should be talking about anymore," she said. "We should be done. Move on. There are other things that deserve our attention."

Sonia Ossorio, president of the National Organization for Women New York City, said she thinks Cuomo can make equal pay a reality.

"There are certainly very strong players in the business community that can lobby against these basic inequity reforms and there has been a lack of political wealth to fix this problem," Ossorio said. "Our current governor appears to be making up a lot of that. If we want to see our daughters earn their fair share, we need to act now. We need to do it or we're going to see another generation being underpaid."

► Women struggle for equal pay in N.Y.

Other pressures women face

Fighting for equal pay isn't the only challenge women face. For example, women must navigate their career when they are pregnant. A pregnancy itself can imperil a job, as employers may be hesitant to hire a woman soon having a child. After a child is born, it is often women who must organize maternity leave — although men might struggle to take time off after having a baby, mothers face a physical recovery as well. In the U.S., new parents are guaranteed up to 12 weeks off, but that does not always include pay. Additionally, the U.S. is alongside countries like Swaziland that do not mandate paid maternity leave. And with child care in New York so costly, many mothers feel pressured to return to work quickly. ● METRO/AB

Bronx pol pushes for gun crime registry

A Bronx politician is pushing for a registry that would track criminals much as the state's sex offender registry tracks offenders.

Bronx Borough President Ruben Diaz Jr. made the suggestion in his State of the Borough address yesterday.

"Law-abiding citizens ought to know who among us is responsible for gun violence," Diaz said.

He proposed an online registry featuring criminals convicted of crimes involving a gun. They would have to update the police about where they live and work, and they'd stay on the registry for 10 years.

Criminals would also need to have their photograph taken every three years at a police agency.

Failure to do any of these would be a felony under his proposal.

Diaz said he would lobby state legislators to build

Developer seeks dismissal of airline's WTC defense

The leaseholder of the World Trade Center properties is asking a U.S. federal judge to reject arguments that American Airlines is not liable for damages stemming from the Sept. 11, 2001, hijackings because the attacks were an act of war.

Larry Silverstein filed court papers yesterday asking U.S. District Judge Alvin Hellerstein in Manhattan to dismiss that line of defense by the airline and its parent, AMR Corp., in his negligence lawsuit against them.

Silverstein has sought to hold American and United Airlines, now United Continental Holdings Inc., responsible for damages from the 2001 attacks for allegedly failing to provide adequate airport and airline security.

The request comes ahead of a ruling by the judge in a separate case to determine whether an "act of war" clause of a federal statute provides a defense to liability claims. If Hellerstein were to rule that defense applied, it potentially could bolster the airlines' defense.

The case is one of the few remaining lawsuits from the Sept. 11 attacks. Hellerstein has presided over most of them.

As part of the Sept. 11 litigation, Hellerstein in November found that United Continental Holdings was not liable for the collapse of 7 World Trade Center because of airport security lapses.

On Feb. 11, the appeals court suggested it might take up the case again if Hellerstein has not issued a decision in 30 days.

Attorneys for Silverstein and American Airlines declined to comment. REUTERS

Cemetery theft suspect arrested

A homeless man accused of stealing expensive metal fixtures from a Bronx cemetery was arrested Tuesday night.

Louis Peduto, 56, removed brass door handles and air vents from St. Raymond's Cemetery at 1201 Balcom Ave. on Monday morning, police said. After being confronted by a security guard, Peduto fled without the items, police added.

The suspect had ripped off more than $160,000 worth of fixtures from more than 60 mausoleums over the course of the weekend and Monday, the New York Post reports.

Police released a photo of Peduto on Tuesday afternoon. He was arrested later when police saw him during a patrol inside 3178 E. Tremont Ave.

Charges include grand larceny, criminal possession of stolen property, possession of burglar tools and possession of a controlled substance.

Thieves prey on D line passengers

One of the suspects

Police are searching for two men involved in a series of violent robberies at a Bronx subway station. The suspects are part of a group that police estimate includes as many as eight people. The first robbery occurred on Dec. 26, 2012, when a man, 37, was swiping his MetroCard at the D line station at Grand Concourse and East 175 Street. A man grabbed him while two others punched him and stole his phone.

On Jan. 10, another man, 32, was walking to the southbound platform of the same station when the same assailant punched him in the face. Two accomplices punched the man and stole personal property from him.

On Jan. 19, seven men, including the first suspect, surrounded a woman, 23. The first suspect snatched her phone and punched her in the face.

Police described the first suspect as 17 to 20 years old, 5-foot-9 and weighing 160 pounds. He was seen wearing loose jeans as well as a denim jacket and a red ski hat. The second suspect is 20 to 25 years old, close to 6 feet tall and medium build.

SAN FRANCISCO. Twitter Inc. said yesterday it is opening up its platform to third-party advertising management software, taking another step to establish its ad-based business model ahead of an initial public offering.

The application program-ming interface, or API, would allow advertisers to connect their existing ad management software to their Twitter account to automate ads on the micro-messaging platform.

"With the Ads API, marketers now have more tools in their arsenal to help them deliver the

BEIJING. Accusations by a U.S. computer security company that a secretive Chinese military unit is likely behind a series of hacking attacks are scientifically flawed and hence unreliable, China's Defense Ministry said yesterday.

The statement came after the White House said overnight that the Obama administration has repeatedly taken up its concerns about cyber theft at the highest levels of the Chinese government.

The security company, Mandiant, identified the People's Liberation Army's Shanghai-based Unit 61398 as the most likely driving force behind the hacking. REUTERS

Defense lands blows on murder case against 'Blade Runner'

A witness heard "nonstop shouting" in the home of South African athletics star Oscar Pistorius shortly before his girlfriend was shot dead, the detective leading the murder investigation said yesterday.

Warrant officer Hilton Botha, a detective with 24 years on the force, also told the Pretoria magistrates court in a bail hearing that police had found two containers of testosterone and needles in Pistorius' bedroom.

The athlete's defense team, which said the containers held an herbal remedy taken legally by many athletes, landed some blows to Botha's portrayal of a cold-blooded killing and described inconsistencies and errors in the initial investigation.

Reeva Steenkamp, 29, was in the toilet of the athlete's home when she was shot dead in the early hours of Feb. 14 —

GETTY IMAGES

► If convicted of premeditated murder, Pistorius faces life in jail.

Valentine's Day. She was hit in the head, arm and hip.

"One of our witnesses heard a fight, two people talking loudly at each other ... from 2 in the morning to 3," Botha told the court. Pistorius' first call after the incident was to the manager of his high-security complex at 3:19 a.m., Botha said.

In an affidavit delivered on Tuesday, Pistorius said he woke in the middle of the night and thought an intruder had climbed through his bathroom window and entered the adjoining toilet.

The 26-year-old said he grabbed a 9mm pistol from under his bed and went into the bathroom. REUTERS

Trajectory

Botha, who arrived on the scene an hour after the shooting, challenged Pistorius' affidavit.

"I believe he knew she was in the bathroom and he shot four shots through the door," the detective said, adding that the angle at which the rounds were fired suggested they were aimed at somebody on the toilet.

Pistorius had said he moved into the bathroom on his stumps — the reason he felt so vulnerable — but Botha said the shots went in a "top to bottom" trajectory, suggesting Pistorius was wearing his artificial legs when he pulled the trigger.

"It seems to me it was fired down," he said.

Court says no to immigrants with guilty pleas

The U.S. Supreme Court declined yesterday to apply retroactively a 2010 ruling that requires lawyers to tell immigrant clients that they can be deported if they plead guilty to certain crimes.

The 7-2 decision was a defeat for thousands of immigrants who might have been able to withdraw guilty pleas in cases alleging ineffective counsel.

These cases predated the court's March 2010 ruling in Padilla v. Kentucky that immigrants should be told some consequences of guilty pleas.

In yesterday's majority opinion, Justice Elena Kagan said the Padilla ruling did not apply to cases that were already final after an appeal.

She said it would not have been apparent to a typical judge before that ruling that the Sixth Amendment right to a competent lawyer extended to advising immigrants about deportation risks. REUTERS

Do Not Postpone Treatment

Varicose veins can start out as a seemingly small problem, but left untreated, can become much more serious. Complications of varicose veins may include ulcers. These may form on the skin near the affected veins, particularly near the ankles. They are caused by fluid build-up in the dysfunctional veins, and can be extremely painful.

Dysfunctional veins can also increase the risk of blood clots. Patients may experience a swelling in the leg, which may indicate a blood clot. Left untreated, these clots can travel through the bloodstream and lodge near the heart or lungs, causing potentially life-threatening health problems.

If you have already decided you'd like to receive vein treatments or would like to get a diagnosis, simply schedule an appointment with USA Vein Clinics today by calling 718-732-0231.

We Buy Any Type of Sterling Silver!

We purchase sterling silver of all types and makers.
Rare and unusual items command the highest prices.Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!We Strive to Beat All
Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

A Note Regarding the
Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

► MAC Cosmetics has signed a major deal with Rihanna.

MAC and Rihanna team up

Face it: This is Rihanna's moment. The pop star dazzled in Azzedine Alaïa at the Grammys, made headlines with her controversial date, Chris Brown and launched her first collection with UK high street retailer River Island during London Fashion Week. And yesterday — on her 25th birthday, no less — it was announced that she's teaming up with MAC Cosmetics on four collections that will hit stores later this year. It's the first time the cosmetics giant will collaborate with one celebrity on multiple lines.

According to an interview with WWD, the first product will be RiRi Woo, a lipstick inspired by MAC's best-selling red, Ruby Woo, Rihanna's favorite.

So how does the pop star feel about all the multitasking?

"Being creative is something that I love, so I can put that into different outlets. Music happens to be the first thing that I gravitated to, and now music opens doors to just so many different opportunities — they all tie in," she says. "My makeup looks, my fashion looks ... they help me to express myself as an artist. I think it helps people to understand me or my mood, my story."

Did you hear that? Apply RiRi Woo and apparently you'll understand why she's still with Chris Brown.

Simpson names second baby before birth

Jessica Simpson and fiancé Eric Johnson have decided on a name for their fetus. "[She's] told people she's going to name the baby Ace!" a source told Us Weekly.

How Johnson and Simpson decided on the name of their 10-month-old daughter, Maxwell Drew, is no secret — Maxwell is Johnson's middle name and Drew is Simpson's mother Tina's maiden name — but no one knows how the couple decided on Ace.

I like Ace, but with his last name? Not so much. "Ace Johnson" sounds like what a dude would name his penis.

The feed ...

► Checking in with some of Hollywood's biggest names to see what they've been up to — in their own words, in 140 characters or fewer.

Today, Roseanne Barr is meeting the press, Rosie O'Donnell is getting nostalgic, Pink is feeling outclassed by a classic and Albert Brooks isn't hurrying to the movie theater.

@TheRealRoseanne giving my first interview to high times this week.

@Rosie We Stanley steamed a carpet - and now the house smells like my Nanas toni home perm - from 1971

@Pink Mary Poppins is f---ing incredible. Still. Julie Andrews dammit. You just made my lullabies look like a sad sad semi-horse karaoke sesh.

@AlbertBrooks "Can't wait to see A Good Day to Die Hard" said the man who fell off a motorcycle and really hurt his brain.

Talking points

Was that Cyrus smoking the good stuff?

Miley Cyrus is coming under fire for a photo posted on Instagram of someone who may or may not be the former Disney star smoking a joint. While smoke and glare obscure most of the person's face, there is a tattoo on a finger in the picture that matches on of Cyrus'. The name of the Instagram account, by the way, is @mileyxxcyrus. Cyrus didn't necessarily deny that it's her in the photo, writing on Twitter only that "I don't have an Instagram."

► Miley? Is that you?

Spears is lip-syncing all over the place

Britney Spears is no stranger to charges that she lip-syncs during concerts and awards show performances, but now the former "X Factor" judge is accused of lip-syncing in the recording studio, according to Star magazine. "My daughter sings for Britney Spears, Murray Langston tells the magazine, claiming that his daughter, Myah Marie, sang seven songs for Spears on her "Femme Fatale" album — and was only paid $1,000 per song.

Kunis is down for a 'That 70s Show' reunion

If Mila Kunis' current relationship with Ashton Kutcher didn't make it clear enough, the actress says that yes, she is up for a full-on "That 70s Show" reunion. "I'm more than game for it," she tells E! News. "I've said it before, I would love to do it. Why not? I loved it. It was eight years and they were eight amazing years of my life."

Baldwin doesn't spew racial epithets

Across the pond at the Brit Awards

1: Taylor Swift showed some leg in her dress at yesterday's show.

2: A very shiny Rita Ora posed on the red carpet.

3: Mitch Winehouse paid tribute to daughter Amy with this special shirt.

4: Fordham pride! Former Bronx girl Lana Del Ray (nee Lizzy Grant) dressed a little more casually than her peers for the affair.

5: We're liking this whole slick back hair thing Justin Timberlake has had going on lately.

6: The One Direction boys are so damn pretty.

London FW diary

MONDAY, FEB, 18

5 p.m.

There was a real buzz at Somerset House pre-Osman — call it the Beyonce effect. She wore one of the designer's black-and-white jumpsuits to the Grammys just a couple of weeks ago. He's not a red carpet designer, so to speak, and the minimalist, fluid silhouettes of this collection certainly aren't going to change that. Loose trousers, a gray asymmetric wool dress with a pleated hem and a cashmere coat will all sell well, but it would have been nice to see a little more drama than a few brocade, lurex and gossamer lace pieces.

Osman

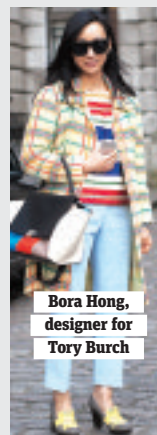

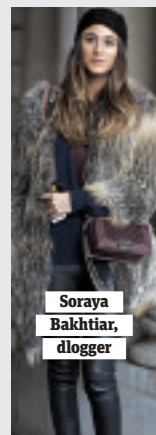

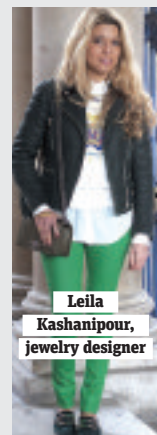

Fashion Week for: wild eccentricity and creative risk. So it's fitting that their artful work kind of served as a parting note for England's shows. This wasn't exactly the place to go for wearable, commercial clothes. The collection was dense with challenging shapes (who can pull off those ruffled vinyl trousers?) and ideas (those strong Edwardian, Vatican and Medieval references) that wouldn't translate easily to a morning train commute to work or even the average special occasion. Instead, their work pointedly reminded us that in an era where fashion is overrun with disposable images of unbridled consumption, it can still reach the creative heights of fine art. I love my fast trends as much as anyone, but it's those increasingly rare moments when a collection makes you pause and think about a subject differently in the same way that a painting or work of creative writing would that fashion is at its best.

'Upload With Shaquille O'Neal'

TALK SHOW. The basketball star gets his own show, co-hosted by Godfrey and Gary Owen, that pays heed to the Internet's funniest videos of the moment. The hosts will also attempt to create their own viral videos, play pranks and poke fun at pop culture's latest fads. We're a little skeptical, but Shaq recently earned his doctorate, so we expect the show will abound with high intellect. 10:30 p.m., Series premiere, truTV

● MATTHEW JACOBS

Reasons to see a movie

Must-see

1 "Snitch" The Rock — sorry: Dwayne Johnson — plays a regular(ish) father trying to take down a fearsome cartel after his son is busted by the DEA. The screenplay — co-written by Justin Haythe of "Revolutionary Road," natch — is based on a true story and no doubt closely adheres to truth.

2 "Dark Skies" Keri Russell becomes the latest talented thespian caught in the grind of the horror machine, playing a mom fending off aliens. "Skies" is directed by Scott Stewart, who is taking a break from religious blockbusters starring real-life atheist Paul Bettany ("Legion," "Priest").

3 "Inescapable" Director Ruba Nadda, of the lovely middle-aged romance "Cairo Time," tries her hand at a political thriller, with "Time" star Alexander Siddig as a former Syrian officer who hunts down his missing daughter. Also starring Marisa Tomei and Joshua Jackson.

4 "11 Flowers" Wang Xiaoshuai ("Beijing Bicycle") helms this look at China's Cultural Revolution of the '60s and '70s, centered on a working-class boy who runs afoul of a young fugitive wanted for murder.

5 "A Good Day to Die Hard" No one (read: critics) much likes the fourth "Die Hard" sequel, but it made a pretty (but not great) penny this weekend, therefore it's fine. Bruce Willis, 57, battles Russians. Wait, Russians? What century is this?

6 "Safe Haven" The latest Nicholas Sparks adaptation is a soapy romance and also, believe it or not, a thriller, which makes us perversely intrigued. It stars Julianne Hough, Josh Duhamel and lessons on what love really is.

7 "Beautiful Creatures" With no more "Twilight" entries (allegedly), a giant hole exists for nakedly sincere supernatural looks at "young adults" engaged in purely nonsexual amour. So, good job, America, on completely ignoring the one that happens to feature Emma Thompson and Jeremy Irons.

8 "Escape From Planet Earth" The source of headache-inducing legal battles since 2007 finally opens, in some kind of presumably viewable shape. Brendan Fraser, Rob Corddry and Jessica Alba give voice to blue aliens, one of whom is sequestered in Area 51, which totally exists.

9 "No" In Pablo Larraín's rollicking docu-dramedy, Gael García Bernal plays an ad whiz hired by the campaign to oust monstrous Chilean dictator Augusto Pinochet from power. Spoiler: It worked!

10 "Like Someone in Love" Iranian filmmaker Abbas Kiarostami ("Certified Copy") journeys to Tokyo to make this alternately amusing and disconcerting portrait of miscommunication amongst a young prostitute, an aging john and her oblivious boyfriend.

A director, twice over

► Director and actor Alex Karpovsky has two new films screening at Lincoln Center this Friday.

► Alex Karpovsky of 'Girls' talks about the two new films he's directed, loneliness and being attracted to stories of misfortune

Best known for his role as Ray Ploshansky on HBO's "Girls," indie filmmaker Alex Karpovsky helmed both films of a double feature slated for a limited release at Lincoln Center this Friday. Karpovsky wrote, directed and stars in both "Red Flag" and "Rubberneck." "Red Flag" tells the story of a filmmaker on a lonely road-trip, and "Rubberneck" centers on an introverted scientist whose infatuation with a co-worker turns into obsession. Karpovsky spoke with us about what draws him into a story, getting into character and what loneliness does to his head.

You tend to play characters at crossroads in their lives. They're living through difficult times, jilted in love — is this something you seek out?

To some extent. "Rubberneck," "Red Flag" and "Girls" are largely character-driven. I think stories of people in transition are naturally interesting. That's where all the juicy stuff is.

And you're specifically interested in loneliness? Lonely people searching for a cure for their loneliness. No matter how misguided or tortured or perverse that search might be.

Would you say that you're a romantic? I think a lot of people would say that the Ray and Shoshanna arc is their favorite in "Girls." I like to think I'm interested in all of those things. In

Q&A

What do you like best about the filmmaking process?

The variety. Writing is usually a solitary thing, so I start itching for collaboration. Production is more of a circus. With editing, it's back to a sort of solitary state. I don't know how writers don't get paralyzed by loneliness. I couldn't do it.

"In 'Girls,' I try to understand what they want from me, and it's usually something that I have a lot of fun doing. In my own projects, I tend toward stories driven by misfortune."

KARPOVSKY

"Girls," I try to understand what they want from me, and it's usually something that I have a lot of fun doing. In my own projects, I tend toward stories driven by misfortune. I'm not particularly engaged by watching people be showered in fortune and blessings. It doesn't create a forum for conflict. Creative loneliness inspired "Red Flag." Are you glad to be out of that part of your life?

I do a lot of things as part of a negotiation with loneliness. I wrote "Red Flag" by myself, but the writing process wasn't that long, so I didn't have time for the suicidal thoughts to really solidify.

Can you tell us anything about your next project? I'm starting to collaborate with people on it, which is making it bearable. It's something I want to shoot in Mexico. We went down there in December to do some location scouting, and hopefully it should come out at some point in the future.

'Night Visions' and 'hooky music'

► Imagine Dragons singer says his top influences include the forefathers of pop rock and his own father ► But don't call them an overnight success ► 'We've definitely worked out way up'

Dan Reynolds, singer for Imagine Dragons, quotes some decidedly odd influences. Odd because the band's debut, "Night Visions," is packed with emotional and confessional lyrics, catchy hooks and anthemic choruses that suggest a diet of Muse and Coldplay. But he says it goes a bit further back, to two other groups from England.

"We all grew up listening to the Beatles and the Rolling Stones and studied their work," says the Las Vegas native.

"I don't know where it comes from, really," he continues. "We wrote 150 demos for this album and narrowed it down to 100, then down to 50, and then down to 20. We really wanted the album to be a cohesive body of work. We wanted each song to flow into the next with a general theme. I can't say why it's hooky. Maybe we like hooky music."

Perhaps the post-emo thrust of "Night Visions" is the result of condensing pent-up emotions and three years of writing into one record. Maybe, for Reynolds, it goes back even further.

"I've always written," he says. "It was always a bit of a journal for me. I would never show anyone the songs but my dad. I always wanted to see what he thought. My dad was one of my biggest influences — [as was] the music he liked, whether it was Paul Simon, Billy Joel or the Beach Boys. I always wanted to impress my dad."

So, does dad approve? "He is just the biggest fan," Reynolds says. "That, to me, is everything. I've always written for myself, but, growing up, there was nothing that made me happier than when my dad was proud of something I did."

Dragons pay their dues

Imagine Dragons' success places them on their first-ever headlining North American tour this winter, and they'll be playing larger venues than most rookie bands. Before anyone scoffs about "overnight success," Reynolds says Imagine Dragons paid their dues.

"We've been a band for four years. We played everywhere. We did a six-hour show in front of drunken gamblers on the Strip. No band does that. We've definitely worked our way up from nowhere."

In defense of the short, the skinny and the small

The secret is out, ladies: Guys know we talk about their junk. It's funny, because as a guy reminded me recently, they "don't go around talking about girls' vaginas." If they did, we'd probably call them pigs and think they're too immature to be getting any in the first place.

It may not be something that's top-of-mind, or something that guys often complain about out loud, but they too feel objectified and, as a result, insecure about their bodies. Many guys who are short feel disqualified by girls before they even have a chance to prove themselves. A short guy complained to me over the weekend: "It's not fair. Can't this —" [Motions around face] "— and this —" [Motions around bulky chest and arms] "— be enough?"

Other guys worry about being too skinny. As one of my clients confessed, "I'm always worried about girls not being into me because of how skinny I am. I don't know if they see me as manly." On the other end of the spectrum are guys who can (and perhaps have) gained a few pounds. They make great efforts to watch what they eat and count calories, and feel guilty after eating unhealthy. And since they're guys, often they don't feel comfortable expressing these concerns.

We may assume that body concerns are "a girl thing." Maybe because of this we feel justified gossiping about how much heat a guy is packing or not to responding to online dating messages from guys who aren't "tall enough." But not only are we hurting guys' feelings when we do this, we're limiting our dating pool based on completely shallow criteria — criteria that makes us cringe when the situation is reversed.

If we don't want guys judging us by the numbers (height, weight, bra size), then we shouldn't be judging them based on those things either. I'm not suggesting dating someone you're not attracted to, but I am urging you not to disqualify people based on shallow criteria before taking the time to see whether you could be attracted to them or not.

Horoscope

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Your best qualities will be extremely evident in various areas of your life, from business to social situations. When you get involved, big things begin to happen.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Substantial accomplishments are possible, especially in developments where your compassionate instincts are aroused. You could go after some magnanimous goals, with good results.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Your ability to effectively deal with others could be your best asset. You'll instinctively know how to bring out your colleagues' best qualities and make them feel appreciated.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20.

Focus your efforts and energies on matters that can help your career and/or add to your resources. It's your current strong suit, where you can apply the best that's in you.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Instead of fretting about whether or not your ideas will work, put them to the test. If you should fail then try, try again. Remember, action begets action.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Something of true significance that has been subjected to many frustrating delays could break open for you through the work of a considerate ally. It was worth waiting for.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. You'll not be in the mood to get linked up with individuals who tend to drag their feet. Seek to associate with people who are as energetic and active as you are.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. A determination to succeed is likely to be your greatest asset. Once this particular resource is tapped, your every objective will be realized.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Plans that require bold measures are destined to go much smoother for you today than they will tomorrow. Time is not your best ally in activities that require an aggressive approach.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Although you might need a push or a jump-start, you'll be great once you get going. If you can team up with an eager beaver, that should do the trick.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Even though you are a strong independent thinker, your companions are likely to have a strong influence on your attitude. Their input will be constructive, not conflicting.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. This should be an exceptional day in terms of selling something or persuading others. The possibility for gaining strong prospects is high.

Think of the children, but feel sorry for the dog

RE: "ARE PEOPLE MORE UP-SET OVER MINDY MCCREADY'S DOG THAN HER CHILDREN?" (METRO, FEB. 19) Well, yes — she killed her dog, not her children. If she had killed children and left her dog behind, I'm sure the focus of the tragedy would then have been on the human victims. Besides, I imagine most people suspect the children will be less scarred without her.

ROLLIE HATCH, VIA E-MAIL

If anybody else is equally sickened by the unspeakable act that Mindy McCready did to the family dog before she killed herself, then he or she should do something. It is too late for that pet but if you were planning on buying a dog, cat, ferret or bird, why not adopt a homeless pet instead? If you cannot do so, then consider making a donation to an animal shelter, preferably a no-kill one. Short on cash? Why not, just for once, instead of going out on a Friday night for dinner and drinks, stay in and donate the savings to an animal charity.

GEORG DEYAB, VIA E-MAIL

Written word is like a window to the past

RE: "SOME NOTIONS SHOULD GO THE WAY OF CHIVALRY" (METRO, FEB. 19) Obviously letter writer Alan Brown missed the point that article was trying to make, judging by the first-person narrative response submitted. I see and get you points, but I also understood the point to the original article. I guess you never had the pleasure of reading a letter from a relative who passed long before you were born. It's a unique window into past lives, one you wouldn't be able to peer into without those yellowed pieces of paper.

TOM MCGRAW, VIA E-MAIL

Violence should be last resort

Automatic federal spending cuts loom on March 1, which would include the Pentagon. We could dramatically cut the military budget and the nation would be safer if we began to rely on smarter ways of achieving national security. Gandhi and Martin Luther King successfully used nonviolent methods in their struggles. An architect of the Arab Spring, Gene Sharp, has written extensively on nonviolently achieving national security.

Academy Awards

Best bets for Oscars night

Whether you're watching out on the town or at home, here's how to eat and drink like a stargazer this Sunday.

► KTCN Restaurant, 508 W. 42nd St., 212-868-2999

Join executive chef Dave Schnell for an Oscars viewing party based upon the first-ever Academy Awards Ceremony in 1929. Enjoy food and drinks inspired by the menu at the very first Oscars dinner, and fill out a prediction ballot for the chance to win prizes. Catch the red carpet and ceremony on a 120-inch screen beginning at 7 p.m. Reservations required.

► Nitehawk Cinema, 136 Metropolitan Ave., Brooklyn, 718-384-3980

Williamsburg's indie movie house and eatery hosts a screening featuring its annual Oscar menu inspired by acclaimed films of the past year. We'd go straight for dessert and order the "Silver Linings Playbook" – Philly-style "kandy kakes" with a Victory Prima Pils.

► Tacombi, 267 Elizabeth St., 917-727-0179

The taqueria will project

Bring home your own chocolate Oscar from Sugar and Plumm.

the awards on two large screens, one in the front of the house and one in the back, so everyone gets to see. Chef Luis Aguilar will be mixing Passion-Fruit Champagne Cocktails for the ceremony.

► W Hotels, multiple locations, www.whotels.newyork.com/nyc

Sample a specialty cocktail designed just for Oscar night. We'd try the Honest Abe "Lincoln," which includes orange bitters, soda and applejack.

Take-out options:

► Sugar and Plumm, 377 Amsterdam Ave., 212-787-8778

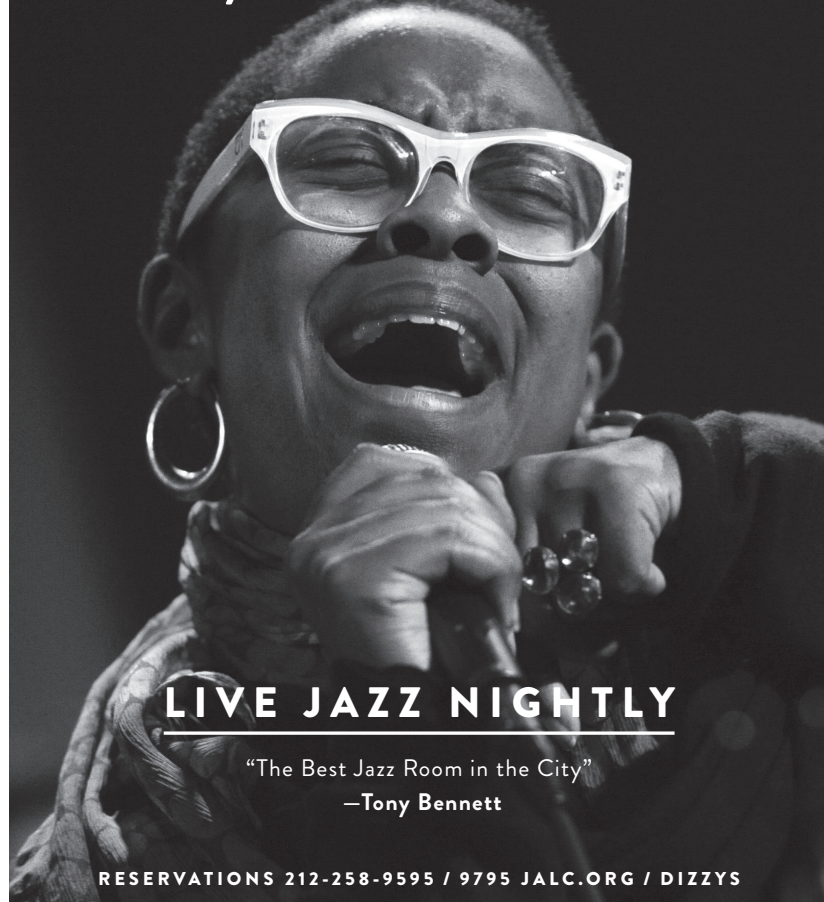

Snap up a hand-crafted chocolate Oscar at this bistro, bakery and chocolaterie. They come in three varieties: milk chocolate, gold dark chocolate and dark chocolate, and make a perfect gift or party favor.

► Epicerie Boulud, 1900 Broadway, 212-595-9606

A specialized Oscar-night catering menu can take the pressure off busy viewing party hosts. Place orders by Saturday evening for hot and cold trays and Hollywood-themed sweets.

5 Top picks for New York City Beer Week

► We enlisted Jeremy Cowan, the president of the NYC Brewers Guild and the proprietor of Shmaltz Brewing Company, to give us his list of can't-miss events ► See you at the aPORKalypse

► Monday: Sixpoint Strong Ale Ataraxia launch at The Modern (9 W. 53rd St.) "I love great art, and I love strong ales. And beer is art, after all!"

► Tuesday: Applewood beer dinner with Kelso Beer Co. (501 11th St., 7 p.m.) "Digging into the tasty ingredients that tie together great artisan beer with an amazing farm-to-brewery-to-table dinner, this five-course beer dinner will feature specialties such as brewery-fresh spent grain pretzel rolls sweetened with malt syrup from Kelso."

► Wednesday: Brewer's Choice at City Winery (155 Varick St., 6 p.m., $60) "This is a remarkable opportunity to meet the actual brewers behind all

Songza the movies

Some of the most memorable songs ever were written for movies. The songs that have won the Oscar for Best Original Song are all on the playlist at www.songza.com/listen/oscar-winning-songs-songza. It's the perfect playlist for your Oscars party. Have your guests guess the years of obscure tunes like "Buttons And Bows" by Bob Hope and famous songs like "Over The Rainbow" by Judy Garland.

— Songza is a streaming platform that mines years of music history and today's music blogs for the best gems, so you don't have to. The company, which calls itself a music concierge service, offers thousands of expertly-curated playlists for free on the Web, iPhone and iPad. Each week Metro teams up with Songza to bring you fun new playlists as you enter into the weekend.

The rundown

MUSIC

Tibet House Benefit Concert
Tonight, 7:30
Carnegie Hall,
881 Seventh Ave., $475
The 23rd installment is curated by composer Philip Glass and features tUnE-yArDs, beatboxer Rahzel, Patti Smith and her band, L.A.-based lo-fi pop artist Ariel Pink, Tenzin Choegyal, Ira Glass and My Morning Jacket's Jim James. It's a steep price tag, but an unforgettable experience and excellent cause. MINDY BOND

Tamaryn with Azar Swan and Ex Cops
Tonight, 8
Music Hall of Williamsburg,
66 N. Sixth St., $13
Tamaryn's dreamy, lushly dark "Tender New Signs" was a sleeper hit record of 2012. Tonight, she brings her darkness to the Music Hall, supported by one of the most exciting New York bands right now, Azar Swan. RUSS MARSHALEK

K-Holes with Acid Baby Jesus
Saturday, 8 p.m.,
Cake Shop,
152 Ludlow St., $8
Dirty garage rock from Brooklyn meets its Greek counterpart when the K-Holes play host to Acid Baby Jesus. JASON DIAMOND

The Sway Machinery
Saturday, 8 p.m.,
The Paper Box,
17 Meadow St.,
Brooklyn, $10
The Sway Machinery's live lineup changes from show to show, sometimes boasting members of the Yeah Yeah Yeahs, Arcade Fire, Beirut and many of today's most popular groups. Every show is high energy, but they especially bring it for big holiday shows like this one on Purim. JD

ART

Marcel Proust's 'Swann's Way'
Now through April 28,
The Morgan Library,
225 Madison Ave., $15
To celebrate the centennial of the first of seven "In Search of Lost Times" volumes, The Morgan is ► Yup, that's Ethan Hawke. Catch him onstage this weekend.

showcasing several of the author's notebooks, preliminary drafts and galleys from the Bibliotheque Nationale de France. Grab your tea and madeines, and get ready for some Proust! JD

THEATER

The New Group presents 'Clive'
Through March 9,

The Acorn Theatre,
410 W. 42 St., $61.25
That Jonathan Marc Sherman's "Clive" is an unapologetic rip-off of Bertolt Brecht is reason enough to go. The over-the-top sleaze is loudly, garishly Brechtian. But it is Ethan Hawke's Clive who makes this rocker's slow fall indelible. Silver-haired, tattooed and sloppy, his performance is never excessive. PATRICIA CONTINO

FILM

'Koch'
Through tonight,
Angelika Film Center,
18 W. Houston St., $13.50
With Ed Koch's passing, "Koch" now doubles as a eulogy to one of our most charismatic mayors. His reign was marked by a transit strike, the redevelopment of Times Square, the waxing AIDS epidemic, the rebuilding of the Bronx and a final term riddled with scandal. A must-see for NYC. MB

RECREATION

House of Vans Open Skate
Wednesdays until Feb. 27,
7 p.m., House of Vans,
25 Franklin St., Greenpoint, free

House of Vans is opening its big, beautiful complex every winter Wednesday until the weather warms so you can get your skate on. Gather with friends, eat pizza, gulp Vitamin Water or take in some open mic musical entertainment in the space's VIP lounge. MB

NFL COMBINE TIME

► Giants, Jets head to Indianapolis for annual poking, prodding of college stars
 ► Gang Green faces rebuild, while Giants add depth ► Metro breaks it all down

The annual meat market known as the NFL Combine starts today. It has always been the top place for talent evaluators to break down the top prospects in the upcoming draft. It's more than just the 40-yard dash, as players are interviewed, tested and accurately measured as opposed to their inflated roster stats.

Both the Jets and Giants have some holes to fill in the draft. Metro takes a look at the three biggest positional needs on each squad and a few players they could target in the draft. Be sure to keep an eye on them over the weekend in Indianapolis.

Kristian Dyer
 sports@metro.us

Jets begin with rebuilding job

There's a lot of rebuilding work to be done with the Jets on both side of the ball, and their draft day could be flipped on its end if they add more draft picks by trading away their star Darrelle Revis.

And no, we are not going with quarterback as a need. We still live in a world where Mark Sanchez is owed $8.25 million in 2013.

● METRO/KD

Jones

► Linebacker

With likely three of their four starting linebackers likely gone, the team's 3-4 defense needs help.

Round 1: Jarvis Jones (Georgia) — This is the name most linked with the Jets. He's a strong and sure tackler but can play a bit slow.

Round 2-3: Khaseem Greene (Rutgers) — He's one of the faster backers in the draft and good against the pass and run.

Reid

► Safety

LaRon Landry is coming off a Pro Bowl season, but might be too pricey for the Jets to keep.

Round 1: Eric Reid (LSU) — He has good size and could fit the Jets defense if they decide to trade back from No. 9 to later in the first round.

Round 2-3: Tony Jefferson (Oklahoma) — He isn't big but he's a solid safety and a smart football player.

Bernard

► Running back

With Sanchez at QB, bolstering the offense with a good running game is the way to go.

Round 1: Giovani Bernard (UNC) — His low center of gravity and build is reminiscent of Ravens running back Ray Rice.

Round 2-3: Andre Ellington (Clemson) — The burner will be in demand because he might run a 4.4 40-yard dash.

Giants facing important draft

A year after failing to defend their Super Bowl title by missing the playoffs entirely, the Giants need to add depth after a year of injury struggles.

The Giants are unlikely to do much on the free agent market, because they have so many of their own players to worry about re-signing. That makes the draft especially critical. ● METRO/KD

Wreh-Wilson

► Cornerback

The Giants had a weak secondary last year, tied for the NFL high with 8.1 yards per pass attempt.

Round 1: Jonathan Banks (Miss. St.) — He possesses the ideal size to play the position at the next level and he's a good tackler in the box.

Round 2-3: Robert Alford (Southeast La.) — No, he is not as physically strong or impressive as Banks but he is fast and covers a lot of turf.

Round 4-7: Blidi Wreh-Wilson (UConn) — He has struggled with consistency but has tremendous physical tools.

Fluker

► Offensive line

The aging Giants could use an infusion of youth anywhere along the offensive line.

Round 1: D.J. Fluker (Alabama) — Fluker was part of the offensive line that powered the Tide to consecutive national championships.

Round 2-3: Terron Armstead (Ark.-Pine Bluff) — He has great measurables and could become an ideal down-field blocker.

Round 4-7: Reid Fragel (Ohio St.) — He has room to grow on his frame but is a sound player with great feet.

Kelce

► Tight end

With Martellus Bennett testing free agency, they could use a tight end who can catch and block.

Round 1: Tyler Eifert (Notre Dame) — No question Eifert would be a dream fit for the Giants. He's an underrated blocker too.

Round 2-3: Travis Kelce (Cincinnati) — He is a well-rounded tight end from a school that is producing NFL-caliber players at the position.

Round 4-7: Nick Kasa (Colorado) — Kasa played defensive end until 2012 but made a solid transition as a senior.

DO YOU HAVE CELIAC DISEASE?

You may qualify for a research study if you:

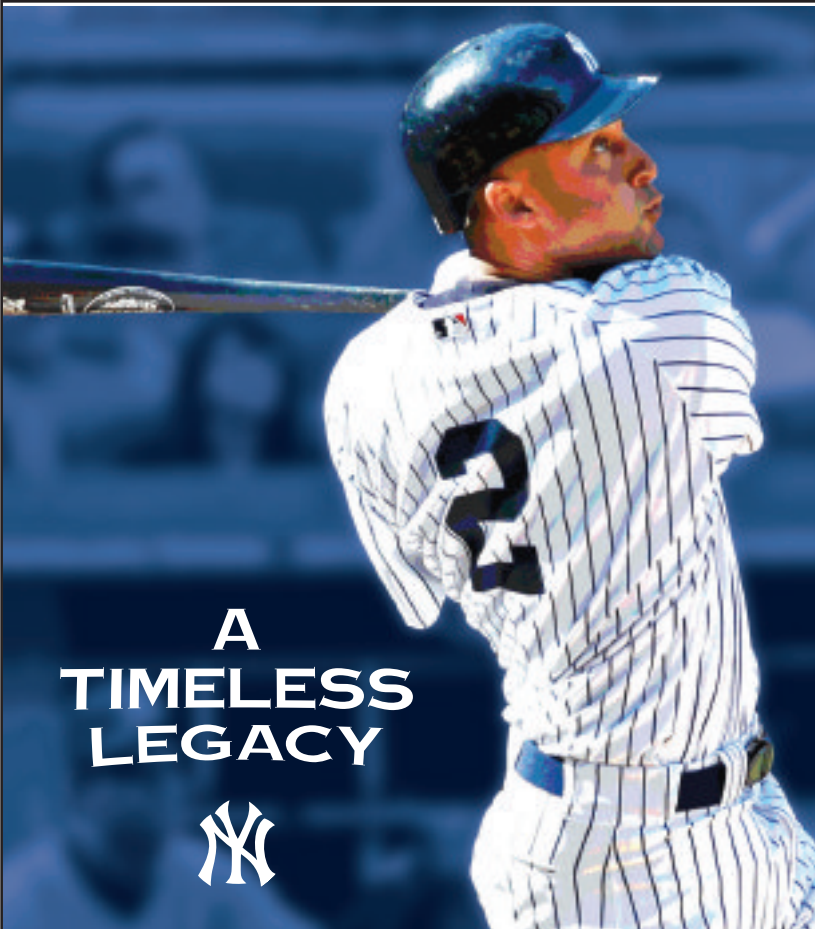

- Are between the ages of 18 and 75 and have been diagnosed with celiac disease
- Have a diagnosis of celiac disease confirmed by biopsy and lab work more than 12 months before research study entry
- Have been on a gluten-free diet for 12 months or longer
- Are still experiencing symptoms when exposed to gluten
- Are willing to maintain your current diet for the duration of the research study
- Satisfy other inclusion criteria

Fantasy sports

ADAM LEVITAN

ALEVITAN@METRO.US

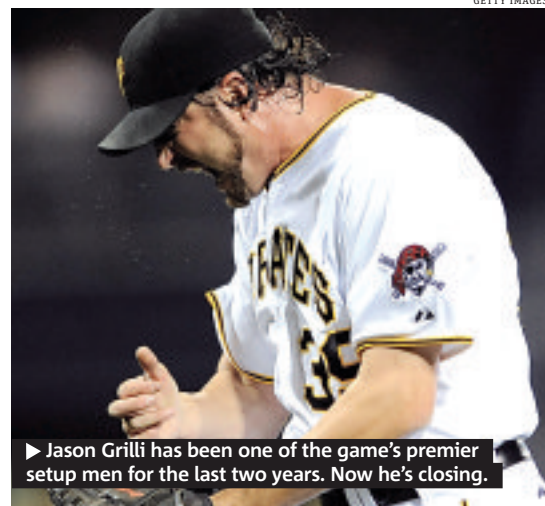

It's easy to throw out empty fantasy clichés like "wait on a quarterback" and "don't pay for saves." Executing the plan takes some more work.

Last season, guys like Jim Johnson, Fernando Rodney and Rafael Soriano came out of nowhere to rank 1-2-3 in total saves. This year won't be much different at the game's most volatile position. Some candidates to circle for the middle-to-late rounds of drafts:

Fire Grilli

The Pirates weren't will-► Jason Grilli has been one of the game's premier setup men for the last two years. Now he's closing.

ing to pay Joel Hanrahan, so they shipped him to Boston. It was an easy decision because they have Jason Grilli to step in as closer right away. He's racked up 12.5 strikeouts per nine innings over the last two years while posting a sub-3.00 ERA.

Taking Perks

Glen Perkins is a former first-round pick that took a winding path to where he is now — locked in to the closer's job with plenty of leash in his age-30 season. The biggest concern is that the Twins aren't going to win a lot of games, thus capping save chances. Still, his ERA and WHIP will be elite.

From the East

Don't waste a pick on Carlos Marmol. Although he'll likely enter the season as the Cubs' closer once again, his leash is going to be very short. Kyuji Fujikawa, the best reliever in Japan over the last six years, has been brought in for support. He's a strong flier.

New York Yankees

Hughes put on the shelf with bulging disc

The Yankees have amended the news Tuesday that Phil Hughes would miss a couple days with upper-back stiffness — and it's not for the better.

General manager Brian Cashman said yesterday morning that Hughes has been diagnosed with a bulging disc in his upper back and will be shut down for as much as two weeks. He will be given anti-inflammatories, and the team will reassess the injury after about a week.

"Just with how I've been progressing the last couple of days, I feel like I'll get through these anti-inflammatories and I'll be symptom free in the next four or five days ► Hughes was strong in the postseason last year, going 9 2/3 innings with a 1.86 ERA and nine strikeouts.

3 Phil Hughes has made three extended stays on the DL (2007, 2008, 2011) in his brief six-year career.

and we'll get going from there," Hughes told reporters in camp yesterday morning.

Hughes did not seem concerned, though Cashman indicated the Yankees would be conservative with the injury.

Hughes was expected to fit into the No. 4 spot in the rotation after a bounce-back 2012 campaign. He finished with a 16-13 record and 4.23 ERA in 191 1/3 innings.

David Phelps and Ivan Nova, who are competing for the No. 5 spot, would both slot into the rotation if Hughes' injury keeps him out longer than expected.
